NIGERIA : CURSE OF THE OIL

Director(s): Jean-louis SAPORITO, Akira NIINOBE

Writer(s): Jean-louis SAPORITO

Nigeria is the sixth largest oil producer in the world, but the country's per capita income is less than $1 per day. It is one of the poorest countries in the world: ranking nr. 152 in the list of 175 countries in the human development index.

To understand this paradox, we meet two key players: on the one hand, Dr. Ngosi Okonjo-Iweala, new Nigerian Finance Minister, a former World Bank Vice President, Doctor of Economics, and a mother of four, who is also in charge of fighting corruption. And on the other hand, there is Moujahid Dokubo-Asari, leader of the Delta rebellion and the militia called "Niger Delta People's Volunteer Force". Dokubo-Asari fights the government and the oil companies for a fairer distribution of the oil profits.

The investigation leads us further to U.S. Vice President Dick Cheney and his involvement in local affairs of corruption, and gives us an insight into U.S. government actions - and the Pentagon in particular - to "render the region secure".

Categorie(s): History & Current Affairs, Collections - Series
Tag(s): Politics, world headlines, Africa

Producer(s): NHK, POINT DU JOUR
Length: 1x50 / Format: One-off
Original version: French
Versions available: International
Nationality: France, Japan, 2006
Rights: TV: French-speaking, Germnay, Nordic countries, Italy, Spain Support(s): SD â€“ Digital 16/9

http://www.pointdujour-international.com/catalogueFiche.php?idFiche=34173&lang=en