

JEAN-CLAUDE COULON, TRAWLER OF A NEW AGE

Director(s): Jean-Pierre VEDEL

Writer(s): Jean-Pierre VEDEL

The Jean-Claude Coulon is a 125-foot trawler equipped with sophisticated tracking devices allowing it to locate shoals of fish. It's setting sail from the port of Lorient on the Brittany coast to the North of Scotland.
This stunning insight into life aboard an ocean-going trawler, including wonderful on-board camerawork, introduces us to a historian of the golden age of sea fishing in the shape of ship's captain Emile-Jean Triboulet.
