

DRESS IN MONGOLIA

Director(s): Delphine DELOGET

Writer(s): Delphine DELOGET

We have arrived in Mongolia where the 'del' is the traditional coat of the Nomad people and it has become the symbol of a disappearing world.
We meet a new type of entrepreneur who looks beyond Mongolia and finds inspiration in the Far West : he wears his Mongolian boots and daringly adds a cowboy hat to his outfit.
But the last cry in fashion among the rich is to dress up as Genghis Khan, the founder of the Mongol empire.
We meet a small group of violent anti-Chinese youth whose fanatic worship of Nazism is rather worrying.
In the cities, we discover a renaissance of shamanism. And we meet a young woman from a yurt district of Ulan Bator who lets us into her secrets of how to remain sexy at very little cost!
