America today. A freight train crosses the landscape like a gigantic iron serpent.
One day, Ivy, Karen and Christina left everything, braved the danger to travel the country on board these trains.
hey wait for them, hidden in thickets, sleeping under the bridges of highways.
They lead a life of hobos (vagabonds). to the backdrop of the deafening noise of the metallic beast, the director becomes their traveling companion. On the rail tracks and wherever life has led them, their paths cross, their destinies are like a mirror that reflects a rage for life, a spiritual quest, an eternal rebellion.
They are stronger than others, stronger than men... They are free!
